German Flood Toll Rises To 246 Dead Or Missing

Waters Recede, Leaving Scene Like Battlefield

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — The toll of dead and missing in the wind-whipped floods which hit Germany's North Sea coast this weekend rose Sunday to 246.

Authorities revised earlier counts of casualties as waters from the flood—worst in more than a century—receded, leaving behind what looked like a giant battlefield.

Hamburg police reported that in the city alone 96 bodies have been recovered, with another 120 listed as missing and feared dead.

Thirty people were reported to have perished in Bremen and on the North Sea coast of the state of Lower Saxony.

Thousands Homeless

Almost 500 persons were in Hamburg hospitals to be treated for exposure or shock. Tens of thousands were made homeless.

Emergency crews all along the 400-mile coast repaired dikes which had given way to the raging waters at countless points Friday night.

The strong winds which had sent water swirling over hundreds of acres of fertile land and residential areas largely had abated Sunday. But many people still were trapped by the deluge. Damage was estimated to run into hundreds of millions of dollars.

West German President Heinrich Lübke surveyed the disaster area on a helicopter flight and the Bonn government offered federal aid.

Bodies Spotted In Rural Areas

There still were no casualty reports from remote rural areas but rescue helicopter crews reported seeing numerous bodies floating in the water or lying on rooftops.

Many persons had spent their second night in the top floors or on the roofs of flood-surrounded homes. White bedsheets floated from chimney stacks indicated to airborne rescuers where help was needed.

Lord Mayor Paul Nevermann said that in Hamburg alone, 20,000 were still cut off by the waters and were receiving only minimum food and water supplies by air and boats. Almost 40,000 people were homeless in the city. They are in temporary shelters set up in churches, schools or other public buildings.

U.S. Seeks Allied Cuban Embargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk sent two of his high officials to Paris Sunday to seek a crackdown by the Atlantic allies on trade with Cuba.

The United States hopes to get the cooperation of Western European nations and other friendly countries in cutting off all arms shipments to Cuba and goods of strategic importance.

In addition, officials said, it would like allied and friendly nations to reduce or eliminate purchases of goods from Cuba in order to deny the government its income in foreign currency.

The two officials sent to Paris were Walt W. Rostow, a member of the Policy Planning Council, and Richard N. Goodwin, deputy assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs.

The State Department said that they would meet with the 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council this week.

MAKES PEACE PLEA

Mrs. Nina Khrushchev, shown in Washington in 1959 during visit of her husband, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, yesterday made an appeal to Americans to lay down their arms and live in peace with the Soviet Union. The appeal was made in a special radio broadcast beamed from Moscow to North America.

U.S. Friendship Appeal Is Made By Mrs. Khrush

MOSCO (WAP)—Nina Khrushchev, wife of the Soviet premier, appealed to Americans Sunday in a special radio broadcast to North America to lay down their arms and be friends with the Soviet Union.

She repeated what her husband has repeated many times before—that the governments should dump "all weapons into the ocean."

Mrs. Khrushchev spoke in English.

In her speech, which lasted barely 10 minutes, Mrs. Khrushchev said she was replying to American women who had written to her expressing their concern about the danger of war. They indicated, she said, that they were greatly worried about the danger of nuclear slaughter.

She expressed belief there is a means of protecting people against missiles or atom bombs. "War must not be allowed to break out," she said. "This can be done through general disarmament under strict international control."

She promptly got into line in support of her husband's appeal for opening the disarmament conference in Geneva March 14 by the heads of the 18 governments which are members of the Disarmament Committee. She said that was the best method.

"They must lay down the correct line for the committee to follow in all its future efforts to bring about general and complete disarmament," the wife of the Soviet premier said.

"Let us sink atom bombs along with other weapons in the deep part of the ocean and live without weapons as good neighbors, going about our peaceful affairs."

Like her husband, Mrs. Khrushchev recalled the days of President Franklin D. Roosevelt as a bright and sunny time in the relations between the Soviet Union and the United States.

She said he regarded friendly understanding between the Soviet Union and the United States as the foundation of world peace.

British Troops Maintain Order In Guiana Capital

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP) — This fire-scarred colonial capital that came close to destruction in bloody anti-government riots Friday was under the firm control of British troops Sunday.

The soldiers—flown here from Jamaica and Britain at Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan's request—were out in force in all parts of the smoldering downtown section.

Their main job was to prevent looting in the aftermath of violence that took at least six lives, left scores injured and caused an estimated $11 million property damage.

China Charges India Spy Plane Over Territory

TOKYO (AP)—Red China has accused India of sending a reconnaissance plane low over Sinkiang Province in China's remote northwest and has protested vigorously, Radio Peiping said Sunday.

Details of the protest, however, disclose that the reported flight was over the northeast corner of Ladakh, the Himalayan plateau claimed by both sides in a dispute dating back to the mid-1950s.

Radio Peiping said the plane "dropped scores of stuffed gunnies (sacks) and wooden cases" on a Chinese military post in the area. This would indicate the plane might have been on a supply mission and made the air drop, thinking the post was manned by Indians.

The broadcast said the protest was delivered by the Foreign Ministry to India's embassy in Peiping Jan. 24 but so far there has been no reply.

The Communist note said an Indian plane intruded into the air space over the Red Chinese military post shortly after noon on Jan. 14.

It located the post at 35 degrees, 19 minutes north, 78 degrees, 12 minutes east in the Sinkiang autonomous region. This would be in the northeast part of Ladakh, not far south of Sinkiang's border.

Saying Red China had notified India last November that it had a post there, the note declared: "It is obviously a deliberate encroachment on the Chinese territorial air and territory and a provocation that the Indian government should now have gone so far as to send its aircraft to intrude into the air space over the said place for reconnaissance and air dropping."

"The Chinese government hereby lodges a serious protest with the Indian government against this and demands that the Indian government take effective measures at once to insure against the recurrence of similar incidents in the future."

Laos Coalition Talks Revived

LUANG PRABANG, Laos (AP) — Prince Souvanna Phouma left this royal capital Saturday after talks with King Savang Vathana and said he would keep on trying to form a coalition government.

The self-styled neutralist leader said he would go to Vientiane, the administrative capital, Wednesday for consultations with royalist Premier Prince Boun Oum.

Souvanna has been designated by the king to head a new national union government but a snag has developed over Cabinet posts—especially the ministers of interior and defense.

Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, anti-Communist strongman of the Boun Oum regime, conferred with Souvanna during his visit here but there was no indication they came to any understanding.

Both Western and Eastern ambassadors have been putting pressure on the Vientiane regime to come to an agreement with Souvanna on a national union government that would make Laos neutral in the cold war.

Hawaii Session On Viet Nam Aid Set For Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara left for Hawaii Sunday "very optimistic" that growing effectiveness is being shown in South Viet Nam's U. S.-aided efforts to curb Communist guerrillas.

McNamara gave newsmen his views briefly just before boarding a plane for Honolulu and his third conference in two months with top U. S. military and diplomatic figures of the Pacific area.

Each Hawaii session has centered on the situation in South Viet Nam where the U.S.-backed government is fighting for its life against infiltrating Red guerrillas from North Vietnam.

"I think I can see increasing effectiveness of South Viet Nam's forces against the very savage Viet Cong troops," McNamara said.

U. S. soldier-advisers are active in large numbers with the South Vietnamese and are instructed to shoot back if fired on by the Reds. Asked if he feels U. S. forces are becoming directly involved in combat under this order, McNamara replied negatively, saying, "The President has made it quite clear" that U. S. personnel in South Viet Nam has no combat role.

The secretary discounted also a suggestion that the situation might develop into another Korea, commenting that "this is quite a different operation."

Accompanying McNamara as chief State Department representative is Averell Harriman, assistant secretary in charge of Asian affairs.

The party also includes Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, chairman of the strategy-shaping Joint Chiefs of Staff; Asst. Secretary of Defense Paul Nitze, who directs military aid programs; Arthur Sylvester, assistant defense secretary for public affairs; and Brig. Gen. William B. Rosen, the Army's new specialist on counter-guerrilla warfare.

At the Hawaiian headquarters of Adm. Harry D. Felt, U.S. commander in the Pacific area, the Washington group will get up-to-date reports on the progress and problems in the Viet Nam aid program and the military situation there.

Flying into Hawaii for the session is a delegation of U.S. officials in Viet Nam, including Ambassador Frederick E. Nolting, Gen. Paul D. Harkins, recently appointed to head the new U.S. military assistance command there, and Maj. Gen. Charles D. Timmes, deputy chief of the Military Assistance and Advisory Group.

Nehru Will Reject Khrush Summit Bid

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru said Sunday he will not attend a summit meeting with Premier Khrushchev, probably Monday, when he will not attend a summit meeting on disarmament at Geneva March 14.

In a planeside chat with reporters on his return from an election tour, Nehru declined to comment on the merits of Khrushchev's proposals but said: "I can not go, not on that date."

Midwest Paralyzed By Heavy Snowfall

By The Associated Press

A furious, windblown snowstorm belted the Midwest Sunday and practically buried eastern South Dakota, southwestern Minnesota, eastern Nebraska, much of Iowa and northwestern Illinois.

Hundreds of secondary roads were drifted shut, tollways and main highways were piled with drifts and driving was hazardous. In some areas the snow turned sleet which added to road hazards.

Church services in rural areas in many states were canceled and social activities were postponed.

The storm spread from the central Rockies eastward across the Great Lakes.

Sioux Falls, S.D., reported 30 inches of snow and Rock Rapids, Iowa, measured 20 inches of snow. The storm paralyzed the South Dakota - Minnesota border area and choked the western and central Nebraska region.

Everything was closed in behind mounds of snow at the Sioux Falls airport and bus depot off

Plane And Body Of Pilot Found After 29 Years

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—The wreckage of a plane that vanished over the Sahara 29 years ago and the body of its British pilot have been found south of the French atomic testing grounds, the army said Sunday.

A statement said the body of pilot William Newton had been "amazingly well-preserved." The plane, a De Havilland biplane, was found about 140 miles south of the proving ground of Reggane.

Flight records show Newton took off from Barcelona for Central Africa, but there was no clue to why his plane landed. There still were 60 gallons of gasoline in the tanks.

Newton's diary told how he climbed out of the plane after it nosed over and waited vainly for rescue. After seven days the entries broke off, apparently after he succumbed to hunger and thirst.

Liz May Leave Hospital Today

ROME, Monday (UPI) — The hospital where actress Elizabeth Taylor is recuperating from a reported case of "food poisoning" said early today she was making a "fine" recovery and might be released later today.

The film beauty was reunited Sunday night with her husband Eddie Fisher for more than an hour after physicians had barred him from her room at the Salvatore Mundi Hospital for six hours.

Fisher, haggard after a rushed return here by jet from a business trip to Portugal, had no comment when he left the hospital to return to their $3,000-a-month villa.

Dr. Richard Pennington said the 29-year-old actress was rushed to the hospital Saturday night suffering from "stomach pains, vomiting and collapse."

He said Sunday night that she was "very much better" and also expressed the opinion that she might be released on Monday or Tuesday.

"Just food poisoning," he insisted. "Oysters, I believe."

Weaver Scores Race Undertone In Urban Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration hopes for an early Senate showdown on creation of a Cabinet department of urban affairs faded over the weekend but unofficial debate continued to swirl about the issue Sunday.

Robert C. Weaver, the federal housing administrator who is slated to become the first Negro Cabinet member if the department is created, put his finger on the toughest spot in the controversy when he said: "There is a large segment of the population which will interpret a vote against the department as a vote against the concept of having a Negro in the Cabinet."

"This is one of the unfortunate realities of political life. It always has been. I'm afraid it will be until we have a society without separation as far as racial concepts are concerned."

Weaver made his statement in response to a question from Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., on a TV program taped for use on New York stations. Keating is among Republicans favoring an urban affairs department but critical of President Kennedy because he announced Weaver would head it if it is created.

This, the big-city Republicans argue, is a calculated move by the administration to put them on the political spot. They say it makes it appear that any Republican voting to kill the President's proposal is voting against Negro representation in the Cabinet, whereas he may be opposed for entirely different reasons.

This theme was reiterated again Sunday by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., but the President's proposal drew a supporting statement from Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn.

Kennedy has issued an executive order establishing the 11th Cabinet department and it will become effective March 31 unless it is vetoed by either one of the two chambers. The President took this step after a regular bill to create the department was shelved by the House Rules Committee.

Weather Outlook Hazy For Orbit Shot Tuesday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Weather experts said Sunday they are "cautiously optimistic" that Atlantic Ocean weather will improve and permit John H. Glenn Jr. to rocket into orbit around the earth Tuesday.

Weather in the eastern Atlantic showed signs of bettering but experts warned that a new storm is expected to move into the western Atlantic and the areas in which Glenn would drop back to earth. This development might come by shot time.

Glenn, meanwhile, said he is "relaxed as can be."

Partly cloudy skies are expected over the Cape Canaveral launch site Tuesday morning. Weather experts said from the launch site to the central Atlantic

Soviets Claim Airplane Right Of Inspection

Reply To Western Plane Harassment Charges Negative

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union rejected Sunday a Western protest against Soviet buzzing of Western planes in the Berlin air corridors.

A note delivered to the American, French and British embassies was described by informants as "negative" and a rejection of the protest filed Feb. 15 with the Soviet government.

That note accused the Russians of attempting to force changes in the established procedures in the three air corridors to Berlin across East Germany by demanding the right to use for themselves exclusively certain levels in the corridors reserved for all four powers.

The text of the Soviet note has not been published but a well-

Soviet Demands Air Corridor's Exclusive Use

BERLIN (AP) — The Soviet Union Sunday night renewed its pressure on the Allied air links with isolated Berlin. It demanded exclusive use for the Red air force of the north corridor from Berlin to Hamburg for three hours Sunday.

The Western powers immediately rejected the Soviet bid. Allied officials said they will answer it as before—by flying extra military transports through the space the Russians wanted to reserve. The United States, Britain and France also were reportedly ready to send in fighter patrols if the Russians continued buzzing Allied planes.

The new bid was made by the Soviet control officer in the Berlin Air Safety Center. He asked for exclusive use of the Hamburg corridor up to an altitude of 7,500 feet. There are other 20-mile-wide air corridors linking Berlin with West Germany—from Frankfurt and from Hannover.

informed source said the Soviet Union declared it has a right to conduct aerial inspection in the corridors over East Germany and will continue to do so.

Western planes have repeatedly been buzzed by Soviet jet fighters in the last week or so as the Western planes deliberately flew at or below the levels the Russians said they wanted to reserve. The buzzing and the requests for reserving air space came to a halt during the weekend, perhaps because of bad weather.

The three powers in similar notes last week said Allies rights to use the corridors "derive from precisely the same source as do the rights of the U.S.S.R. in Germany and East Berlin, namely, the joint military defeat of the German Reich and joint assumption of the supreme authority over Germany."

Youngster's "Hi" Amuses Kennedy

MIDDLEBURG, Va. (AP)—A 5-year-old boy amused President and Mrs. Kennedy by calling out "hi" when they arrived for noon Mass Sunday at the Middleburg Community Center.

Both the President and First Lady gave a big smile to Mac Baber of Marshall, Va.

Mac was back at the door when the Kennedys left and said "hi" again, thrusting out his hand.

The President shook it while Mrs. Kennedy beamed her approval.

Uncovering Of Additional Highway Frauds Looms

WASHINGTON (AP) — When new frauds that are turned up by the federal government distribute billions of dollars so widely so far and five more were indicted last week by a federal grand jury, including an assistant commissioner of public works, Fred B. Dole. All were charged with conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the purchase of highway rights of way. They pleaded innocent.

If this was an isolated case, it would be one thing. But Chairman John A. Blatnik, D-Minn., and his subcommittee staff maintain that the same sort of thing could be happening in a number of other states.

Massachusetts is the fourth about widespread irregularities in state so far in which the subcommittee has aired scandals in the purchase of some $65 million highway building. The others since 1956, $48 million of which were Florida, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Subcommittee sleuths now are to draw from the investigations to Administrator George H. Martin the state. Some of these funds now have been released, but the government is holding a sizable amount in escrow to cover any

Dozen Easton Demonstrators Freed On Bond

By The Associated Press

Twelve persons, most of them in their early teens, were arrested in Easton Saturday and charged with trespassing as demonstrators aimed at lowering the racial barrier at Eastern Shore restaurants continued on a local level.

State Police from the Easton Barracks arrested one Negro demonstrator who refused to leave Ayre's Diner on U. S. 50 just outside the town. The remainder, including one 22-year-old white youth, were arrested at Stefano's Sub Shop, also located on U. S. 50.

All 12 persons were released on bond of $100 each. A hearing on the charges was set for March 1 in the Trial Magistrate's Court in Easton.

Other demonstrators picketed several restaurants in Easton proper, but no incidents were reported and the group broke up shortly after 10 p.m.

Meanwhile, a group of some 35 students, under the sponsorship of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), participated in peaceful demonstrations along U. S. 1 from Baltimore to Laurel. There were no arrests and no incidents. Police reported the group entered a number of restaurants, but left immediately when the Maryland law governing trespass was read to them.

A number of students from northern colleges and universities who had been to Washington, D.C. over the weekend to take part in demonstrations protesting nuclear testing and seeking disarmament, stopped at several restaurants on U. S. 40 en route home.

The integrated groups left the restaurants voluntarily, however, when requested to do so, and police reported no incidents or arrests.

This was the first weekend since Christmas that a concerted freedom ride has not been staged at some area in Maryland. Spokesmen for CORE and the Civic Interest Group of Maryland (CIG) said the Washington peace rally was the main reason no mass demonstration was planned.

Boy Gets Life Term For Slaying Family

BRESCIA, Italy (AP) — A 19-year-old farm boy with a strong distaste for work was sentenced Saturday night to life imprisonment coupled with hard labor for the shotgun slaying of his mother, father and 3-year-old sister.

Giuseppe Rossi confessed at his trial in this northern Italian city that he shot his mother and father in their beds last Nov. 1 after wrecking his motorcycle returning from a village party. He said he feared a parental bawling out for his behavior. Rossi also admitted killing his sister when the shots awakened her and she began screaming.

Maryland News In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police have charged a restaurant busboy with homicide in the fatal beating of a night switchboard operator.

The body of the victim, Myron Jackson, 61, was found Saturday in the lobby of the apartment house where he ran the switchboard. The youth arrested was identified as 19-year-old Toribio Abraham Sera Leyva, a native of Cuba.

HYATTSVILLE, Md. (AP) — Richard Hayes, 60, burned to death Saturday night when his clothes caught fire in an unused bus where he lived in Prince Georges County.

Det. Charles Kiess of the Prince Georges County Police, said Hayes' clothing apparently caught fire when some matches on a wood stove burst into flames. He added that Hayes made an unsuccessful attempt to put the flames out by going outside and rolling in the snow. Kiess said Hayes had accidentally burned himself several times previously.

Easing Of ABA Ban Advocated

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Bar Association was urged Sunday to relax its ban on taking photographs and using radio and television equipment in courtrooms during a trial.

The chairman of the Federal Communications Commission joined representatives of newspapers, radio and television in calling for a revision of Canon 35 — a 25-year-old rule of judicial ethics.

They suggested that still and TV cameras and radio microphones be allowed in courtrooms when the presiding judge permits.

The views were presented at a hearing conducted by a special ABA committee — in person in most instances and in a letter from FCC Chairman Newton M. Minow.

John H. Colburn of the Richmond (Va.) Times Dispatch who represented the American Society of Newspaper Editors, stated: "We endorse efforts to extend press coverage, through photography, broadcasting and television, as a matter of public interest, if this can be done without jeopardizing the rights of defendants, the state or the court."

Scott For Logical Pentagon Censorship

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said Sunday censorship of military men's speeches is necessary, but should make sense and should include a right of appeal decisions of "some fool censor."

Scott made the statements in discussing in a recorded TV interview a Senate investigation of charges by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., that Pentagon censorship muzzles military men who want to attack communism.

The special investigating subcommittee headed by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., is to resume its hearings Monday.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — State revenues from retail and use taxes for January increased 20 per cent compared with the same month of 1961, the comptroller's office said Saturday.

Revenues during the first month of this year were $10,218,072 as compared with $8,513,126 for January, 1961 according to Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein. The comptroller said the increase was due primarily to initial application of the sales tax to restaurant meals costing $1 or more and sales of 25 cents and over instead of 51 cents.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A ruling of the Boston federal court declaring invalid a freight rate differential for East Coast ports brought cries of shock and astonishment from members of the Maryland Port Authority.

The authority said it would appeal the ruling to the Supreme Court. Joseph L. Stanton, executive director of the port authority, said the ruling "will be a severe blow to Baltimore" and the city "will lose a large percentage of traffic through the port" because of it.

Furnace Fumes Kill 3 Children

HINTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Three children were found dead here Sunday, apparently asphyxiated by fumes from a furnace in the home of one of the children.

The victims were identified as Dennis Wykle, 17, Vickie Lynn Wykle, 5, a niece of the boy, and James William Chewing, 11, a neighbor child.

The deaths occurred at the home of Mrs. Georgia Meadows, mother of the Wykle boy. The Chewing youth was spending the night in the home. Police said Mrs. Meadows left the children in charge of her son Saturday night when she went to stay with a sick friend. Her husband, Fred Meadows, works in Detroit.

Two Die In Md. Auto Mishaps

By The Associated Press

Two persons were killed and another was critically injured Saturday as the result of separate accidents in Maryland.

Violet Elizabeth Hawkins, 49, of Takoma Park, was dead on arrival at Montgomery County Hospital after her car collided with another vehicle on U.S. 29 about one mile south of Simpsonville in Howard County.

Police said the driver of the other car, Patrick Farley, of Farmington, Mass., was not seriously injured.

Richard A. Motz, 17, of Hagerstown, died of injuries he received when his car apparently failed to heed a railroad crossing signal in Hagerstown and crashed into the side of a Reading Railroad diesel engine. Hagerstown police said Motz was traveling west on Northern Avenue in the city when the accident occurred. He was taken to Washington County Memorial Hospital, where he died two hours later.

In Salisbury, a 19-year-old girl is in critical condition with a broken back at Peninsula General Hospital as the result of an accident late Saturday night.

State Police said the mishap occurred when a car driven by Franklin Wilson, 21, of Salisbury went out of control on the Coulburne Mill Road east of Fruitland and overturned.

The injured girl was identified as Frances Crockett of Salisbury. She was a passenger in the Wilson car, police said.

Cleanup Of Pennsy Wreck Completed

BALTIMORE (AP) — Work crews of the Pennsylvania Railroad cleared the remaining derailed cars Sunday from the four main line tracks seven miles north of the Baltimore station, and service returned to normal.

Twelve cars, part of a 135-car freight train en route from Wilmington, Del., to Washington, D.C., jumped the track early Saturday. The cars were loaded with steel, cement and tires. The derailment tore out several hundred feet of track, but no one was injured.

Trains were detoured over Baltimore & Ohio tracks between Baltimore and Philadelphia while workers cleared the tracks.

Bob Kennedy Pledges Thais U.S. Protection

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Robert F. Kennedy arrived Monday and declared the U.S. government "is dedicated to the security of Thailand," a nation uneasy about the Red threat in nearby Laos.

The attorney general told reporters at the airport his brother, President Kennedy, is determined to help Thailand against "external force and internal subversion."

"This must be understood in a neighboring country," he added in an obvious reference to Red China. "I will take this opportunity to talk with the leaders of Thailand to discuss our common problems in order that I may report to the President upon my return to Washington."

His statements were taken to mean he will reassure Premier Sarit Thanarat, who has made plain that Communist-threatened Laos will be the chief topic of discussion. Sarit ordered Thailand's border with Laos reinforced last week.

Before Kennedy arrived, Sarit told newsmen he plans to ask Kennedy: "What does the United States really want?"

Thailand is at odds with the United States over formation of a coalition government in Laos under neutralist leader Prince Souvanna Phouma. The Thais say such a government eventually will mean domination by the Communist Pathet Lao under Souvanna's half-brother, Prince Souphanouvong. The United States has been backing Souvanna.

National Test Programs In High Schools Blasted

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — National testing programs to determine such things as which high school students shall get into college and which shall win scholarship, were attacked bitterly here Sunday as dangerous and unfair to both the schools and the students.

Three major educational organizations, representing nearly 40,000 of the country's top school officials, said the testing programs threaten to get completely out of hand.

A report two years in the making said school systems should refuse to participate in national tests unless the tests "can be demonstrated to have value commensurate with the effort, money, time, and emotional strain involved."

The report did not single out any of the testing agencies by name.

The report was sponsored by the American Association of School Administrators, holding its annual convention here, the National Association of Secondary School Principals and the Council of Chief State School Officers.

Even gifted students will score well in a national test only if they have studied what the test-maker thinks they should have studied, the report said.

Because success on a national test is given such importance, it added, "some high school pupils have learned to want answers to trivial questions because this is what counts. Correspondingly, some teachers are only too eager to provide students with such answers, because this is relatively easy and also counts for them."

The prime purpose of the national tests, the report said, is to identify those who will succeed in college. Thus the high schools tend to become farm clubs and training grounds for college-bound students.

Scores made on the tests are given far too much importance, by the students, their families, the high school and the colleges, the report said, and "they often determine — rightly or wrongly — what the future holds. Many chil-

Remark Stirs Bomb Search

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A young woman's remark that a passenger's luggage contained a bomb sparked a search of a Lake Central Airlines plane here Sunday. No bomb was found and the craft proceeded to its destination.

State Police Cpl. H. E. Parks, who investigated, said he was satisfied that the woman's remark was an "idle jest," but that it was a violation of federal law. She was identified as an employee of an insurance company that maintains a counter at Kanawha Airport.

After the investigation and search, she was allowed to return to her job.

The aircraft, originally scheduled to leave Charleston at 4:10 p.m., was detained for one hour. It was bound for Clarksburg, Morgantown, Elkins, Martinsburg, Washington and Baltimore.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I did a terrible thing five weeks ago and can't get it off my mind. I've lost 17 pounds and I'm a nervous wreck.

I'm 38, happily married and the mother of three children. Money has always been scarce and I wanted desperately to have a new dress for a party. I couldn't afford anything in silk so I went to a department store to look at some inexpensive cottons. I tried on a cute one at $6.98 and it was a perfect fit. Unconsciously I put my coat on over the new dress and began to walk out. Suddenly I realized what I was doing. But it seemed too easy, so I kept walking, knowing my old dress was on the hanger.

A house detective stopped me just outside the door. All I could do was cry. Since I had never done anything like this before they let me go.

Now I'm so ashamed I can't sleep at night. My religion has always been important to me but now I avoid going to church because of the confessional. How can I get this off my conscience?

—PEGGY

DEAR PEGGY: Since confession is part of your religion, start there — and you'll feel better.

Nothing is so futile (and energy-consuming) as torturing yourself over what happened yesterday. Learn from your mistake and then put it out of your mind. The authorities were extremely generous and you have much to be grateful for.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Am I old-fashioned or just nuts? What has happened to those twin virtues "dependability" and "consideration?"

Friends and business associates break dates at the last minute with the lamest excuses you ever heard. Often I've sat staring at my wrist watch (even shaking it occasionally) for 25 or 30 minutes. The offending party waltzes in unconcerned, without a word of apology.

People promise to phone and then they proceed to forget it. They offer to drop something in the mail and it never arrives. I know precious few individuals whose word means anything.

Is this part of our declining society—a symptom of the moral decay that philosophers are concerned about? Or did people behave this way 100 years ago?—JAUNDICED EYE

DEAR JAUNDICED: It was ever thus. The human animal has changed little since Abe Lincoln's time. The reason you didn't notice it 100 years ago is because you weren't around.

Ironically, however, busy people are the most dependable. The goof-offs who do the least invariably keep the busy ones waiting.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print your answer soon so I will know what to do.

I'm 19 and my fiancé is 21. He gave me a ring for Christmas and we plan to be married in June. The ring was very sparkly and bright for about three weeks. Now it is losing its luster and turning cloudy. My cousin who is in the jewelry business told me last night the stone is not a real diamond.

I love this boy and I don't want to hurt his feelings. Should I keep quiet or not?—FAKED OUT

DEAR FAKED: By all means tell your boy friend. Make it plain that the value of the ring means nothing to you. He should be clued in, however, because if he paid for a diamond and got a hunk of pop-bottle glass he has some settling to do with the jewelry store.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teen-agers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Police Search For Missing Pennsylvanian

Reportedly Lost $3,900 Gambling

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) — Pennsylvania police have intensified a search for a man who disappeared after he wrote his wife saying he lost $3,900 in a gambling game "at a place called Billy's" in Wheeling last month.

The missing man was identified as Brendan McDermott, 33, of Meadville, Pa. Police said McDermott apparently has been cashing bad checks in an attempt to pay off his gambling debts. A letter he sent to his wife told her he had paid off $3,100 of the debts so far. But he said he was afraid to come out of hiding because he might be caught by the gamblers.

McDermott was a traveling salesman for a New York City firm. He came to official attention when a warrant was issued for his arrest on a charge of having passed a $125 bad check in a Pittsburgh store.

Pennsylvania State Police at Meadville said no formal charges have been filed there against McDermott and their action is listed as "attempt to locate."

McDermott was last seen when he drove to Pittsburgh Jan. 6. His abandoned car was found later on a parking lot.

Atomic Tests And The Bomb-Banners

President Kennedy's expected decision to resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere will produce loud—and futile—protests from American anti-bomb groups. In this country, the organized anti-test forces have only feather-weight influence, although they seem, inexplicably, to be able to stir up nationwide debate on the issue.

In Britain, the anti-bomb set swings more weight. The announcement that Britain would resume testing, and that Christmas Island would be lent to the United States for bomb tests, brought a broadside from the minority Labor Party in Commons.

The Laborites apparently intend to make atomic testing a major issue. They will be aided by the Committee for Nuclear Disarmament and the Committee of 100, militant anti-bomb groups which created commotion about testing last year.

There is no danger that Britain will hedge on her present agreement to let the United States use Christmas Island. But there is danger that opposition pressure could force London to retreat later, when other atom-test agreements are pending.

President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan have decided, on the basis of all the facts available, that testing must be resumed to preserve our nuclear lead over the Soviets. They did so reluctantly, fully aware of the possible cost and consequences.

It would be unfortunate, and perhaps disastrous, if anti-bomb groups were able to force a retreat which might enable the Soviets one day to out-muscle us in the world struggle.

Atomic holocaust is not the only way Western civilization can commit suicide. It can, by weakness and wrong decisions, simply yield the stage to Communism.

Bobby's Trip

Henry J. Taylor, against whom I bear no malice and with whom oft on a Tuesday I chit-chat over a viand in good company, regards himself as an authority on international relations, having been Ambassador to Switzerland, a lesser country engaged mostly in producing milk chocolate and providing tax havens. Harry apparently does not appreciate Bobby Kennedy travelling over Asia and Europe and having a look-see at the doings of diplomats, politicians, merchants, and others who live outside the United States.

Bobby Kennedy, apart from being the President's brother and despite such a relationship, is an experienced investigator, having served on the McCarthy Committee and the McClellan Committee of the United States Senate and having written an important book, "The Enemy Within." He has gone through the labor unions of the country, leaving nothing to be discovered that is corrupt and he is now teaching American business that the law must be obeyed, no matter how big the company.

Were he not the President's brother, it would be found satisfactory to send him on a mission of investigation underwritten by a foundation or some other enterprise. Because he is the President's brother political enemies raise the cry of nepotism which gives the impression that only one member of a family is genetically endowed with ability, capacity and imagination. Of the Kennedy brothers, Bobby is to my liking because he fights for many causes that I believe important.

One of the misfortunes of our country is the mismanagement of the State Department and the CIA. The President has to do something about it. President Eisenhower should have done something about it. Therefore a prime investigator, who happens to be Attorney General of the United States, is moving about the world looking at why this country is so badly represented abroad. Nearly all the Kennedys are on this job and when they come home the President will have first-hand knowledge of what goes.

My good friend, Harry, the erstwhile Ambassador, calls it a "junket." Bobby Kennedy and his wife take the cheers and jeers that now-a-days come to American celebrities. Harry Taylor worries about the cost of this trip. He says:

"The government's spending is colossal. We foot the bill for every penny. Anything that smacks of an idea that a few millions here or there makes little difference is a terrible injustice. It is a symptom of a malaise at the top."

We are throwing away billions of dollars on futile activities. If a prime investigator, which Robert Kennedy is, can discover what is done with this money and why it is being spent, we might not only get a dollar's worth of return for our money but we might even save high amounts. At any rate, someone is on the job who could discover what Hoffa was up to and who can discover what all the little devils who sit around eating cream-puffs and denouncing their own country are up to.

This does not mean that there is a quarrel between the President and Secretary of State, Dean Rusk. It does not mean that the President plans to make his brother Secretary of State. It does mean that the President knows that he was misinformed concerning Cuba; that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was misinformed concerning Cuba and that must not happen again to a President of the United States and a Secretary of State.

Henry Taylor says:

"It is especially lamentable that Mr. Kennedy would permit even the slightest impression that he is squandering anything on his brother. Property was already strained when he appointed his younger brother Attorney General of the United States in the first place. Leaders throughout American life avoid nepotism like a plague."

This is nonsense. The Kennedys can afford to pay their own bills if anyone insists upon it. Furthermore, no nepotism is involved in the appointment of Bobby. Since the day of John Adams, our second President, able sons of great fathers and brothers have served in our government. Dr. Milton Eisenhower served in numerous capacities while his brother was President and Harry Taylor never complained about that. In fact, two great families, the Adamsons and the Tafts served their country during its long history. To make the point that ability should be set aside because of blood relationship is childish in an era when ability is so sorely sought.

Is Gamble On Laotian Neutrality Going Sour?

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

In the past two months, Communist North Vietnamese troops have been continuously moving into disordered Laos. The concealed invasion — there is no other word — has approximately doubled the number of Vietnamese infiltrators on Laotian soil.

When President Kennedy and his Far Eastern deputy, Gov. Averell Harriman, first tackled the thorny Laos problem, there were from three to five thousand Vietnamese infiltrators, most of them disguised as Laotians and acting as cadres to stiffen the pro-Communist Laotian forces. There are now close to 10,000 infiltrators; and about half of these are in organized North Vietnamese army battalions, with few remnants of the disguises worn by the first-comers.

The North Vietnamese military movement into Laos is obviously significant, because of its effect on the military balance there. The scale in Laos is so small that ten more Vietnamese battalions on the Communist side make a really substantial difference.

But the question being debated in the U. S. government, with rising anxiety, is whether this North Vietnamese movement into Laos also has another, less obvious but even more profound significance. Does it mean, in fact, that the Kennedy-Harriman policy in Laos is based on assumptions which are no longer valid?

The policy is to secure the formation in Laos of an all-party government led by the neutralist chieftain, Prince Souvanna Phouma. The gamble inherent in this policy has always been enormous. As the price of his cooperation, Prince Souvanna has demanded that the anti-Communist leaders in Laos, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan and Prince Voun Oum, hand over to him both the Defense and Interior Ministries.

This means nothing less than giving to Prince Souvanna final control of both the Laotian police and the 60,000-man American-armed, American-trained royal Laotian army. This could bedownright disastrous if Prince Souvanna is less neutral than he pretends, as many informed persons rather strongly suspect.

Nonetheless, the strongest pressure has been put, and is still being put, on Prince Voun and Gen. Phoumi Nosavan to agree to the formation of an all-party government on Prince Souvanna's terms. The risk is great, since the only anti-Communist forces in Laos will pass from anti-Communist control if Prince Voun Oum and Gen. Phoumi yield. But the gamble is that Laos will then become truly neutral, and will cease, in particular, to serve as a transit-route for the North Vietnamese attack on South Vietnam.

The origin of the gamble is the agreement in principle which Gov. Harriman negotiated with the Russians in Geneva. The Russians pledged themselves, under this agreement, to enforce the complete evacuation of Laos by all North Vietnamese, and to stop all use of Laos as a transit-route by the North Vietnamese. They swore to take two steps, which would effectively insure Laotian neutrality, as soon as an all-party Laotian government had been formed under Prince Souvanna Phouma.

It is clear, therefore, that the Kennedy-Harriman policy in Laos is squarely based on two assumptions: first, that the Russians can be relied upon to carry out their clear and unequivocal pledge to Harriman; and second, that the Russians have enough authority over the North Vietnamese to enforce the terms of their pledge.

There can be no argument about the key importance of these assumptions. Prince Souvanna's genuine neutrality is debatable enough in any case. But even if he wants to be neutral, he will not be able to be neutral so long as there are large numbers of North Vietnamese troops inside the border of Laos.

Hence the massive (in Laotian terms) Vietnamese military movement into Laos has special significance. It calls into question the value of the Russian pledge, though Gov. Harriman is reportedly still arguing that the Russian will keep faith if Voun Oum and Phoumi will only yield. And even if Gov. Harriman is still judging Russian intentions as correctly as he has generally done, the troop movement into Laos also calls into question the Russians' power to carry out their pledge.

For it is far from clear whether Moscow or Peking now speaks with the loudest voice in the councils of the North Vietnamese Communists. After Khrushchev attacked the Chinese by proclaiming his anathema against Albania, the North Vietnamese signified support for Peking by sending the Albanians a message of friendship. Then in mid-December, a large and high-ranking Chinese military mission paid a long visit to the North Vietnamese capitol, Hanoi.

The really significant North Vietnamese military movement into Laos appears to have begun after this Chinese visit. Add up all these signs, and the level of doubt about the gamble in Laos is seen to rise pretty steeply.

Inside Washington

THIRD AND ONE-HALF —The press is known as the "Fourth Estate," legislators as the "Third Estate." Two Democratic members of Congress have just formed something called the "three and one-half Club," to consist of members of Congress who once were newspapermen.

The founders are Leo O'Brien, of New York, who served for many years as a correspondent for International News Service, and Roman C. Pucinski, of Illinois, one-time staff member of the Chicago Sun-Times.

They've surveyed the House membership and estimate that at least 55 of their colleagues are eligible for membership in their organization, lying half-way between Congress and the press.

If their figures are correct, it would indicate that ex-newsmen in Congress are outranked in numbers only by lawyers as the largest professional group in the Capitol.

DEEP FREEZE STUFF —The epitome of a supersalesman used to be the man who could sell refrigerators to Eskimos. But a better simile will have to be found now that the Small Business Administration has approved a $300,000 loan to the Alaska Ice and Storage Co., to build a cold storage plant on Kodiak Island.

The need for the plant was no gag. The Alaska fisheries industry is dependent on adequate cold storage facilities to preserve its huge catch. And the industry is so large and so influential that the new state's two senators, Ernest Gruening and Bob Bartlett, both worked hard to persuade the S.B. to grant the loan.

So, along with providing milk for the Hottentots, the administration is working its way through quite a few of the old gags that never seemed real or possible until a need arose. This time it was ice boxes for Eskimos. Who can guess what it'll be next.

Heart Disease Divided Into Two Main Classes

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Physicians have done more to conquer heart disease in the last 50 years than in all the past centuries. This is heart month and we are going to concentrate on the heart this week. We will offer suggestions on what you can do to avoid heart trouble and what can be done if you are a victim of this disease.

Heart disease may be divided into two main classes—the infectious and congenital defects of the young and the degenerative (arteriosclerotic) diseases of more mature years. The youngest individual to get heart disease is the infant born with one defect or a combination. Some of these abnormalities are so severe, prompt surgical care may be needed to save life. Surgery can be delayed in others until the best time. Some cannot be helped and others have minor defects that do not need correction.

It is in the field of diagnosis and treatment that most progress has been made in congenital heart disorders. Medical science has prolonged the life of thousands of these children by discovering ways to determine the exact type of defect. Surgeons then went on to devise ingenious operations to mend the lesions.

The original heart operations were done through small incisions in the auricles. The knife was fastened to the index finger which opened up the narrowed valve without disturbing the pumping action of the organ.

Soon it became obvious that open heart surgery would be needed to correct other defects. The surgeon had to see what he was doing. The trick was to maintain circulation to the brain and the rest of the body while the heart laid open. The circulation is passed through mechanical heart-lung machine that pumps away while the surgeon does his work.

The newest way to accomplish this is by refrigeration. Lowering the body temperature to between 60 and 50 degrees F. arrests the circulation for an hour, by reducing the body's need for blood. These and many other innovations have been worked out to correct mistakes of nature.

TOMORROW: Causes of heart disease.

GASTROINTESTINAL STUDY
A. B. writes: I'm having trouble with my digestion and the doctor wants me to have a g.i. test. Is this done for anything besides ulcer?

REPLY

Yes—for cancer, hernia, polyps, diverticuli, kinks, obstruction, and spasm somewhere along the gastrointestinal tract.

RADIOIODINE TEST

M. K. writes: I have a goiter and my doctor wants me to take a radioactive iodine test. With the additional fallout we now have, will it be dangerous to go through this test?

REPLY

No. There are other tests for thyroid activity that can be used if the question of fallout is of major concern to you.

HOT FOODS AND CANCER

V. M. writes: Will eating food sizzling hot cause cancer of the lips?

REPLY

We do not know the cause of cancer. But malignancy of the throat and stomach is said to be more common among races or nationalities that prefer hot food and drink.

STERILIZING PILLS

C. A. writes: Is the male contraceptive pill available?

REPLY

No. This product has been abandoned, even though it produces sterility. Side reactions occurred when alcoholic beverages were taken with the pills, including faintness and low blood pressure.

GAMMA GLOBULIN AND GERMS

H. G. writes: Is it true that gamma globulin is the body's fighter?

REPLY

Yes. The protein elements of the blood contain the germ fighting cells.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamping envelopes is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

JFK's Proposed Tax Reforms Bring Invasion Of Lobbyists To Capital

By Drew Pearson

In fact, businessmen, bankers, industrialists, oilmen, and spokesmen for other special interests have been pouring into Washington to take up the cudgels against the tax changes.

Actually, President Kennedy wants to give business men a tax break in order to stimulate the economy. He has proposed an eight per cent tax credit on new plant machinery, which would encourage modernization to meet European competition.

More Revenue

He would also like to step up the depreciation rate by basing it upon the economic, rather than physical, life of manufacturing equipment.

These two measures would reduce tax revenue an estimated $2,300,000,000 a year. To make up for the anticipated loss, the President has asked Congress to close certain tax loopholes.

The most gaping is the tax exemption granted to savings and loan associations on 12 per cent of their reserves. If they were taxed the same as banks the Treasury figures they should have paid $800,000,000 in taxes last year. Instead, they paid less than $6,000,000.

The 44 savings and loan companies in the greater Washington area, for example, paid less than $500 in taxes for the year.

To block Congress from increasing their tax load, the savings and loan boys have mounted a lobbying campaign that surpasses all others. They have wined and dined Congressmen, organized a nationwide letter-writing campaign.

Glen Troop, chief lobbyist for the U. S. Savings and Loan League, has told Treasury men bluntly: "We intend to beat your brains out."

The restaurateurs have been almost as active in opposing the proposed 50 per cent cut in entertainment expenses that can be written off by businessmen.

They have invited the Congressmen, on whom they have been calling, to dine at their luxury eating places—on the house, of course.

Friendly Keogh

Both groups have found a champion in Congressman Eugene Keogh, a power on the Ways and Means Committee, who has made a career out of representing the special interests.

This column discovered he had accepted checks from gas lobbyist Charles Patrick Clark after advocating beneficial legislation for the natural gas interests. Clark claimed the checks were legal fees.

A dapper Democrat who represents a "rough and tumble"

Brooklyn district, Keogh actually lives outside his district, in the same swank apartment house in which the President's father, old Joe Kennedy, sometimes resides. But Keogh is more than a neighbor. He has close political ties to the Kennedys.

The President has sent word to him, however, through White House legislative chief Larry O'Brien to stop representing the special interests and start working for the public interest.

"You've had your fun," O'Brien told him. "Now the President would like you to help him put across his tax reforms."

Meanwhile, almost every company which has an overseas subsidiary has screamed to Congress against the President's plan to tax American companies at home on the profits they make abroad.

By equalizing the tax imbalance Kennedy hopes to stop American companies from moving their operations overseas and taking jobs away from American workers.

Despite the big business pressure, many Congressmen are worried about this threat to employment. Even Senate Finance Chairman Harry Byrd of Virginia, who usually sides with big business, is cautious about opposing the President's plan.

"There is only one thing that terrifies the Congress—unemployment," he declared privately. "Congress will not tolerate unemployment."

Even the President's proposal to grant tax credits to manufacturers for modernizing their equipment is opposed by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers. However, they are losing the support of corporations they represent. The railroad, coal, textile, electronics, and machine-tool industries have already endorsed the plan in defiance of the C of C and NAM.

Walter Heller, the President's chief economic adviser, suggested to aides that the two business groups are so accustomed to opposing Democratic proposals their attack was probably a reflex action. He said he was reminded of the parents who wheeled their baby around Central Park, stopped at a bench to read the newspapers. The wife glanced into the buggy and screamed, "My God, we've got the wrong baby!" The husband shrugged her. "Don't yell so loud. We've got a better buggy."

The C of C and NAM, he said, won't have anything to do with a Democratic baby.

However, the public, which has no lobbyists on Capitol Hill, is taking increased interest in reforming the tax laws.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Last Christmas, the students of Towson High School near Baltimore executed an almost impossible assignment: they put a small smile in religion. The journalism students, under editor Brian Robinson wrote the birth of Jesus in contemporary newspaper style.

The little paper is called Jerusalem Star. The teen-agers who wrote the stories had special knowledge, imagination, conciseness and a sense of humor. The heads on the story were, in themselves worth all the time I spent reading the high school tabloid:

"Thousands Register for Roman Tax"; "Shepherds Spot UFO in Northern Sky"; "Camel Drivers Call Strike"; "Rooms in Homes, Stables Used For Overflow"; "Report of Messiah Called Result of Mass Hysteria"; "Astronomer Views Star"; "Gladiators Clash."

The advertisements were written with tongue-in-cheek: "Come to the Gladiators Fights in a Litter from Senator Sam's Taxi Service"; "Master Rent-a-Camel. Get there Faster with a Master." "For those who think young and are sociable and want that refreshing new feeling and want the pause that refreshes and all that... Drink Cocus-Colus."

The stories, of course, were written in current newspaperese. One started this way: "Shepherds outside of Bethlehem spotted a shining unidentified flying object yesterday moving across the northern sky. When local authorities arrived at the scene, the shepherds, appearing to be in a daze, at first declined to answer any questions, but they later relented and told their version of what had happened."

"David Zebolin, seemingly the spokesman of the men, told of a 'Giant, miraculous star and a band of golden angels singing in the sky.' Zebolin said the angels spoke some words to him, but he was unable to remember what they were."

"The matter was referred to the Unidentified Flying Objects Bureau in Jerusalem for further investigation."

"Inquiring Reporter: 'What do you think of the rumor that the long-hoped for Messiah was born in the Bethlehem area last night?'" Melchior, a wise man from the Orient: "I think this is quite possible. I have been following a very bright star which, by my calculations, should lead me to this child. Last night it paused over Bethlehem." Marcus Accotes: "I wouldn't give you 30 pieces of silver for a story like that."

"Confusion has reigned over the Jerusalem area for two days caused by the great influx of Judea's native-born during the taxation census. The question of accommodations for these newcomers has aroused a certain amount of hysteria among the inkeepers. Rooms have been stretched to sleep several families, halls are crowded with less fortunate sleepers, and even stables have become hostels for the overflow."

"All routes to Jerusalem are cluttered with travelers who, finding no alternative, have camped by the roadside. One such squatter, expressing the mood of dissatisfaction, said: 'It is the government's duty to find a decent place for us to stay.'"

A fashion columnist writes: "Something new has been added! Darien created the hit of the season with a new styling called 'the bow.' The bow is made with two loops caught together by a knot with the ends hanging softly. Ladies of the village who wish to look fashionable for Hanukkah are urged to order their dresses soon..."

"The Damascus camel-cab drivers Local 49 of the AFL-CAO called a strike today at Leonidas Hall because contract differences were not settled. Dionysius Horatias, Roman Secretary of Labor, is preparing a team of mediators to go to Damascus to settle the strike. Saluamus Salis, labor leader, has stated that the drivers will not settle for anything less than a five-day week, a six denarii pay increase, plus fringe benefits..."

In Rome: "A group of integrationists picketed four public baths in protest against the segregationist policies practiced. The Crusaders stated that officials of the baths refused to admit Hebrews and Carthaginians. The places picketed are Baths of Trajan, Baths of Diocletian, Baths of Nero."

For those who desire little shrines dedicated to false Roman gods, M. Tullian & Son "Est. 533" offer this: "Does Your Home Worship Center Need Renovating? Then see us for the finest in Arabian incense. Etruscan marble altars, and statues of the Gods and Goddesses. We offer speedy home delivery, and a buy-now-pay-later credit plan."

It is obvious that the children have learned something of ancient history. Modern history too...

Main Street U.S.A. shows its mettle!

The community spirit throughout America helps build security for millions through U. S. Savings Bonds.

When the Savings Bond Program began in 1941, your community was presented with a great new opportunity to show the stuff it's made of. The way your community and thousands of other American communities rose to the occasion is one of the bright spots in our Nation's history.

The volunteers take over

People in civic, fraternal, service and veterans' groups stepped into leadership roles, organized Bond drives, sold Bonds to their neighbors and bought Bonds themselves.

The tremendous savings plan that resulted has helped people buy $78 billion worth of new homes, new businesses, college degrees and retirement funds. And Americans still own $43 billion in Savings Bonds—a huge chunk of security which grows bigger each year.

Security: national and personal

Just as in 1941, every Savings Bond you buy is a share in a stronger America. As a personal investment, U.S. Savings Bonds are absolutely riskless. Uncle Sam guarantees that your Bonds will grow, that you can get your money anytime you need it, and that your Bonds will be replaced if stolen or destroyed.

You can buy Savings Bonds where you bank, or on the "installment plan" where you work. Why not look into it today?

"A community grows on its savings—and its volunteer workers," says Art Linkletter, famous friend of the Bond Program.

"America's communities, big and small, have gotten behind the Savings Bond Program 100%. Every one of us owes a vote of thanks to the community organizations and other volunteer groups whose unselfish efforts have helped so many Americans build soundly for the future."

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Proper Handwashing Takes Time

You've seen the way motion-picture surgeons wash their hands while readying themselves for the operating room, copying exactly what real-life surgeons do—except that the camera catches only a couple of minutes of the copious scrubbing procedure.

Every woman who wants beautiful hands, healthy hands and really clean hands would do well to play copycat herself with this professional scrub technique. These are the same hands that touch her face, touch her food, touch other people. They take turns carrying and receiving the soil of everyday toil . . . and the germs it breeds. It's not enough to soak them in dishwater or employ them in giving the daily bath, then to call them clean.

Hands need separate, thorough cleansing several times a day. And this is the way to do it whenever possible:

Work your favorite hand soap into the lukewarm water in the basin until it is sudsy; if the water is hard, encourage suds with a little water softener. Wetting your hands in the suds, begin to scrub them gently with a handbrush. Scrub the whole hand, especially around and under the nails. Be sure to include the wrists and—if your sleeves permit—the forearms and elbows, too.

Using a brush is best unless your skin is very dry. In that case—or whenever a brush isn't handy—a washcloth or bare hands will do. Give at least a full minute to this stage of your handwashing. If you are washing your arms as well, add enough extra time to double-check your elbows. Then, rinse your hands and arms in lukewarm water and bury them in a thirsty towel for complete drying. If you are a working girl whose employer offers only paper towels, supply your own cloth towel and keep it in your desk. After drying, apply hand lotion or cream.

Bedtimes at home, you can add a few beauty-wise fillips to your handwashing ritual: This is the time to smooth down and calluses or rough spots with pumice stone or to fade out any finger stains with lemon juice or hydrogen peroxide. Both, done daily, will prevent the hands from looking permanently—and unattractively—workworn.

It's a good idea, too, to push back nail cuticle every time you give your hands their beauty bath. With the cuticle softened from soaking and scrubbing, the job is easily done. And you'll save yourself from ragged nails. Cleanliness is the basis of all over skin beauty—as you will discover when you read my pamphlet, "Secrets of Skin Care." You may have a copy of your own for just 10¢ and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Enclosing these with your request, write to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper. Delivery in two weeks.

Epidemic Continues

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD. — Just when everyone thought Edd Byrnes had "Bye, Bye, Birdie" tied up, including Edd, surprising word comes that a virtually unknown young actor, Jesse Pearson gets the part. Both producer George Sidney and producer Freddie Kohlmair are quick to say that Byrnes' test was "wonderful, but they felt that Edd is too closely identified still with his Kookie fame of "77 Sunset Strip."

Let me tell you about Jesse Pearson: He has been starring in the road company of "Birdie" and has been a particular hit in Chicago. In fact, reports about him are so glowing that Freddie Kohlmair made a special trip there before inviting Jesse to join Janet Leigh and Dick Van Dyke in the movie starting March 17.

No matter how it rains or what kind of weather we have, I have never known people happier to be home than Lita and Rory Calhoun. Rory said he has two commitments in Rome in April, but he is going to try to get out of them and get something in Hollywood. This shouldn't be difficult for Rory, who is one of our really good actors. Remember how good he was in "The Texan", the TV series that ran for so long?

Lita said that their eldest, Cindy, kept saying, "I want to stay in Cindy's house." Even the children are glad to be home.

Joan Collins tells me that Anthony Newley arrives from London on Sunday. I asked her if she is going to marry Newley, who has a big London hit in "Stop the World I Want To Get Off."

Joan says she is not marrying anybody, but she does admit she likes the talented Newley, who acts, sings and is one of the greatest English talents since Noel Coward. He got his start with Bea Lillie and that's a pretty good start.

One of the major quarrels on the "Cleopatra" set in Rome was a hassle between Rex Harrison and Sid Rogell when Sid gave Sexy Rex a dressing room not to his liking. Harrison responded by simply remaining away from the set and holding up production until Rogell acquiesced to his wishes. Rogell has been trying to save money by installing Rex in a cheaper dressing room than he had asked for.

And, by the way, attorney Gerald Lipsky says when he was in Rome two weeks ago with Liz and Eddie everything was okay. But for weeks now rumors have been flying that Liz and Eddie are battling, despite the denials.

Fifteen-year-old Hayley Mills writes a friend that she's fallen in love, and guess with whom? 72-year-old Maurice Chevalier. Hayley says she fell for the charming Frenchman when they made "The Castaways" for Walt Disney in London last summer.

Now in school in Switzerland, Hayley further discloses that her two big subjects are cooking and French lessons, but that French is her favorite because Chevalier started her out on it while they were working together, and now they correspond in the language.

The three-masted sailing vessel used in "Mutiny On The Bounty" which was constructed at Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, at a cost of $750,000, has been offered to Canada by MGM, free of charge—with one stipulation—that the government sail the vessel to a number of cities prior to the release of the picture—publicizing the movie, of course.

Three Keyser High Wrestlers Qualify For State Title Tourney

Dawson, Evans, Hawkins Win At Fairmont

Sweep Regional Tests; Vie Next At Morgantown

Three members of Coach Joe Stanislawczyk's Keyser High School wrestling team qualified for the West Virginia State championship tournament Friday and Saturday at Morgantown by emerging victorious in the regional tourney staged last Saturday night at Fairmont.

Keyser's qualifiers are William Dawson, 103 pounds; Ed Hawkins, 177 pounds; and Mel Evans, heavyweight.

Two other Keyser grapplers, namely, Harold Cox, 138, and John Markley, 120, lost out in the finals in their weight class at Fairmont.

Dawson and Evans are undefeated this season and both matmen have won 14 consecutive matches.

At Fairmont, Dawson pinned three points, Evans pinned both of his opponents after drawing a bye and Hawkins won two decision matches. Hawkins, incidentally, has won 13 of 14 contests this season.

Last year, Keyser High School's team was runner-up to champion Weirton High School in the state championship event. Richard Dawson, Keyser 138-pounder, won a state title, and Bill Dawson and Mel Evans, undefeated members of the present squad, were runners-up in their respective classes.

ABL May Expel Pipers' Quint

Two New Teams Will Join Loop Next Year

CHICAGO (AP) — Directors of the American Basketball League took action Sunday that could result in the expulsion of the Cleveland Pipers for what Commissioner Abe Saperstein termed "a series of acts detrimental to the circuit."

The ABL directors, at their closing session, also approved franchise awards for next season to two cities, which Saperstein did not name. One is in the Southwest and one in the Northwest, the commissioner said.

The newly franchised cities most likely are Dallas, Tex., and Portland, Ore.

Saperstein said the Cleveland Pipers are on six-day notice of possible expulsion from the year-old ABL circuit, following the vote of the league heads. The commissioner added that the Cleveland management has until Feb. 24 to answer a list of charges, or, otherwise face immediate ouster, effective Saturday.

The Pipers were represented at Sunday's meeting by their coach, Bill Sharman, who made no comment on the action.

Saperstein specifically mentioned what he termed were failures by Cleveland to cooperate with the ABL by failing to file required game statistics, final records of first-half playoffs in which the Pipers competed as winners of the Eastern Division against the first-place Kansas City Steers of the Western Division and alleged violation of other articles of the ABL constitution.

Cereal Radioactive

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — New Zealand Nuclear scientist Sir Ernest Marsden said Sunday breakfast cereal made from wheat grown in western Australia and sold here as "highly radioactive" as a result of the recent Soviet nuclear bomb testing. His report was disputed by senior research officer P. G. O'Zanne who said Sunday night in Perth tests he carried out on western Australian wheat showed no excessive radioactivity.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠ A Q 10 4 3 ♥ Q 6 ♦ A 10 9 3 ♣ 7 2
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♦ Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Two spades. This is a minimum opening and the simple rebid in spades is preferred to a diamond raise which would denote a stronger holding—at least 16 points in support.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠ 7 5 ♥ K 9 6 4 3 ♦ K Q 3 ♣ 8 7 2
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 NT Pass 2 ♣ Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Two no trump. You must not bid three hearts for that would be forcing to game. This hand contained the elements of a two no trump raise initially, but with a five card major and a worthless substitution you chose to explore suit possibilities by instituting the two club inquiry. Since partner has bid spades you are forced to return to no trump. He can still show hearts in the remote contingency that he has them or proceed to three no trump if his opening was not a minimum.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠ K Q J 10 8 6 5 ♥ 9 ♦ 10 7 ♣ A 4 3
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
5 ♦ Double ?

What do you bid?
A.—Pass. You have no reason to disturb partner's bid. It will be time enough to think of bidding spades if West takes the double out to five hearts. In the meantime, your hand should make a perfectly suitable dummy.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠ A Q J 6 4 ♥ A 7 5 4 ♦ J 8 3 2
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♠ Double INT Double
Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Two spades. Since your double was based somewhat on distribution rather than high card strength, your hand may prove a disappointment defensively. There is the added factor that if West now rescues to two clubs and your partner doubles that bid, you will be at a loss as to whether you should stand for it.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ 7 4 2 ♥ A 10 ♦ 8 7 6 3 ♣ Q 10 9 4
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass 1 ♥ Double Pass
2 ♠ 2 ♥ 3 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Four diamonds. Partner has made a vulnerable take-out double and then bid voluntarily at the three level which marks him with a very good hand. Your hand, though not strong, is definitely more than he could have counted on and, consequently, is worth a try for game. With but a single heart stopper we would not recommend a bid of three no trump. A possibility, however, might be three hearts which could enable partner to bid no trump, with some secondary heart stopper.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠ K Q 3 ♥ J 5 ♦ K J 10 8 6 ♣ K 9 3
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 NT Pass Pass ?

What do you bid?
A.—Double. This is a trifle light for a double, but East has confessed to a mediocre holding. If partner has most of the missing points, you will severely damage the one no trump contract. If he has to take the double out, the consequences shouldn't be too dire.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠ A ♥ Q 4 3 ♦ A 9 8 6 4 3 ♣ J 9 5
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Three diamonds. This is somewhat of an underbid but there is no other convenient call available. A leap to five diamonds may get you one too high if partner has a shaded third seat opening. If he rebids three no trump, you will be faced with a further problem, but considerations of safety would dictate a return to four diamonds.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠ K 9 8 6 ♥ J 10 5 ♦ 6 5 2 ♣ A 5 4
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 2 ♦ 2 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. Partner's three spade bid is an inquiry as to whether you have any surplus values. Actually you have just about made the grade for a free raise. Had your two spade bid come in the absence of the overall, then you would be justified in carrying on.

Driver Dies After Crash On U.S. 220

Burley P. Dever
Fatally Injured
South Of Keyser

Burley P. Dever, 49, of RD 3, Keyser, W. Va., a tire inspector at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant here, died yesterday afternoon of injuries sustained in a two-car accident on U.S. Route 220 a mile and two-tenths south of Keyser in Mineral County.

State Police Trooper Robert Noechel, who helped extricate the man from beneath the wreckage of his car, said the accident occurred about 2:45 p.m. The man died at 4:40 p.m. in Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser.

The accident occurred at the intersection with old Route 220 which runs along New Creek. Trooper Noechel said a car driven by Nelson E. Miner, 20, of Huntington, W. Va. a student at Potomac State College, was traveling south on the new section of Route 220 and attempted a left turn onto the old section.

Tried To Pass

Dever, also traveling south, attempted to pass Miner, but his car sideswiped the left side of the Miner car and went off the left berm, dropped off a steep embankment, rolled on its top and slid into a utility pole, snapping it off.

Miner remained on the new section of the highway and was able to stop his car before it came into contact with utility wires across the highway just above ground level.

Dever was pinned under the wreckage and was extricated by Trooper Noechel. Dr. Robert W. McCoy Jr., a Keyser surgeon and others.

Injuries to the victim included a compound fracture of his skull and a crushed chest.

Trooper Noechel said no charges would be placed against the Potomac State student.

It was reported that power was not disrupted as a result of the pole being snapped. Traffic had to be re-routed at the scene.

Grant County Native

A native of Grant County, the victim was a son of the late Aaron and Hannah (Kimble) Dever.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Monna (Moyer) Dever, he is survived by a step-daughter, Mrs. Cosetta Sites, Petersburg, W. Va. and a sister, Mrs. Sarah Moyer, Three Churches, W. Va.

Also surviving are three brothers, Brady Dever, Cresapton; Jerry Dever, Jordan Run; Lester Dever, Severn; and a grandchild. The body was taken to the Rogers Funeral Home in Keyser where friends will be received after 7 p.m. today.

Sewer Project Is Completed

The completion of work on the Mullin Street sewer project was announced yesterday by John J. Long, commissioner of streets and public property.

The elimination of the bottleneck provides a uniform 15-inch line from Winifred Road to the sewage treatment plant.

at Potomac State College. The people are standing on the new section of Route 220. The old section is at the right. The fatal accident occurred at 2:45 p.m., a mile and two tenths south of Keyser. Commissioners Get Report On Population

Planner Predicts
Downward Trend

Copies of a 15-page report on the population and other characteristics of Allegany County, part of the comprehensive master plan series, were submitted to the Board of County Commissioners yesterday by C. Lee Renaud, county planning director.

Accompanying the report was a letter to the county commissioners from Richard Winer, chairman of the County Planning and Zoning Commission.

In that letter Mr. Winer wrote in part, as follows:

"We wish to call your attention to the fact that projections for Allegany County have been projected on a downward trend which is primarily due to the out migration of people in the 20 to 44 age group. A large factor for this migration is the lack of employment opportunity. Consequently, the attraction of job producing industries, which includes the tourist industry, should be given top priority by your board.

"The prospect for reversing the downward trend in Allegany County, as stated in this report, and producing an increase in population will depend upon the success of current and proposed measures of strengthening the county's economy."

This report was prepared by Julian Tarrant of Richmond, Va., a senior associate of Ladislav Segoe and Associates, the Cincinnati, Ohio, firm which has been the county's planning consultant.

One table in the report offers a breakdown of the county's actual 1960 population of 84,169. On the basis of the 1950-1960 decline, he estimates the population will go downward to 79,000 in 1970 and to 74,000 in 1980.

The 1960 population of 84,169 included 7,925 under 5; 15,894 from 5-14; 6,516 from 15-19; 25,736 from 20-44; 19,278 from 45-65, and 8,820 aged 65 and over.

His 1970 estimates include 7,500 under 5; 14,900 from 5-14; 7,300 from 15-19; 23,200 from 20-44; 17,700 from 45-64, and 8,500 aged 65 and over.

The 1980 estimates include 7,000 under 5; 14,300 from 5-14; 6,600 from 15-19; 22,600 from 20-44; 14,200 from 45-64, and 8,400 aged 65 and over.

Free Schooling For Teachers Provided In Bill

Would Extend Plan To Junior Colleges

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A bill which would give future teachers a tuition-free education in community or junior colleges is scheduled for introduction in the Maryland Legislature Monday night.

Sen. William S. James, D-Harford, and Mary L. Nock, D-Wicomico, are co-sponsors of the legislation which would extend to the community colleges the same privilege now enjoyed by students in teacher training at the University of Maryland and state teachers colleges.

At present, all students at the 12 community colleges in the state must pay one-third of their tuition, the state pays one third and the local government operating the college pays the other third.

Under the James-Nock proposal the state would pick up the entire tuition tab for those who promise to teach after graduation and post bond to that effect. State education officials estimate that the extra cost to the state, based on this year's enrollment of 700 at the colleges, would be $200,000.

The same two senators sponsored a bill last week to beef up the state's contribution to these local colleges, which were given their first big push forward by the 1961 legislature. They proposed that the state increase its annual contribution toward community college construction from $5 million to $15 million matching basis with local governments.

The legislature faces a busy week of committee work and floor activity as its returns Monday night from a weekend recess.

Hearings are scheduled Tuesday on racing law and blue law revisions, Wednesday on savings and loan insurance, movie censorship, exemption of cigarettes from the sales tax and operation of real estate investment trusts, and Thursday on a controversial resolution favoring federal development of Potomac River resources.

In addition, fiscal committees will examine spending requests of the Department of Correction, Patuxent Institution, Department of Education and Teachers Colleges, University of Maryland and Morgan College, the state retirement systems, commissioner of personnel and the Standard Salary Board.

The House Judiciary Committee also may have its initial tussles over public accommodations and reapportionment legislation, both of which are scheduled for floor action in the House before the Senate takes them up. Public hearings were held on the bills last week.

Vepco To Spend $6,800,000 In Grant County

More than 8.2 per cent of the $82,500,000 construction budget for 1962 approved last Friday by the board of directors of the Virginia Electric and Power Company will be spent on its Grant County, W. Va., project.

Construction work on the first of two 500,000 kilowatt units at Vepco's Mt. Storm station in Grant County has been allocated $6,800,000. The first unit is scheduled for completion in 1965. The total cost of the project, including transmission lines, will be approximately $160,000,000.

Vepco Vice President A. H. McDowell Jr. pointed out that the construction budget is $4,400,000 more than the $78,100,000 spent last year. The budget includes $35,600,000 for generating facilities and $40,700,000 for electric transmission and distribution facilities. Gas and other property additions amount to $6,200,000.

Tawes Attacked On S&L, Mental Health Program

O'Connor Asks Barrick To Abandon Race

By The Associated Press
Democratic gubernatorial candidate David Hume accused the Tawes Administration Sunday of the "promulgation of fancy plans to fill the vacuum created by the inaction over the past several years."

Hume said the governor attempted to cure the mental health problem in the state by "inviting the world-famous Dr. Menninger to address the General Assembly and then to lift out of context ... those statements which somehow bestow 'leadership' on an administration without an accredited mental hospital to its name."

"If the heat generated by the savings and loan scandal becomes too intense," Hume said, "statistical tables are dragged out to show that only a small percentage of the savings and loan firms are involved. Taken to another field it might be pointed out, using this system, that only a tiny fraction of the bombs dropped during the Second World War were actually dropped on Hiroshima," Hume said.

Would Bar Kamitatu

In other political action over the weekend, James P. Gleason of Silver Spring, seeking the Republican nomination for U. S. Senate, wrote Secretary of State Dean Rusk urging him to take "immediate steps" to prevent Cleophas Kamitatu from assuming the post of Minister of the Interior in the Congo.

Gleason said Kamitatu was an avowed Communist and ardent follower of the late Communist leader Patrice Lumumba, and that his appointment as minister of the interior is "the prime post sought by the Communists in every coalition government they have joined and later subverted."

He pointed out that the post primarily was in charge of the nation's police force, and therefore of great importance.

Meanwhile, Tawes' campaign manager, Herbert R. O'Connor Jr., called on Sen. Samuel W. Barrick, D-Frederick, to abandon his bid for the Democratic nomination for attorney general on the ticket headed by George P. Mahoney.

O'Connor said Barrick originally supported Tawes' veto of an interim measure which would have regulated the Maryland savings and loan industry, but now was attacking the governor for his veto. The campaign manager said the "dramatic shift on the savings and loan issue ... is unfair both to his constituents in Frederick County and Democrats throughout the state."

Mahoney Criticizes Tawes

Mahoney issued a weekend statement attacking Tawes for the latter's defense of his efforts in dealing with the mounting savings and loan scandal in the state.

Speaking of the interim bill which Tawes vetoed, Mahoney said "The ... bill would have halted speculation in unsafe second, third and fourth mortgages and thus made impossible one of the subsequent financial manipulations which cost our citizens millions."

Hume, in an earlier statement, charged the governor with "fiscal double-talk."

Hume said the governor praised his own administration for bringing Maryland out of the recession while at the same time announcing the necessity of tapping the Deficiency Reserve Fund for $6 million.

Hume also charged that the governor talked of "striking a balance between the needs of people and their ability to pay" and at the same time refusing to support tax increases on beer and slot machines although insisting sales taxes on low-cost meals could not be lowered. This is despite the fact that more than 6 per cent of Maryland's population is unemployed, Hume said.

Simms Praises GOP Leaders

Harry Simms, a Republican candidate for nomination to U. S. Senate, praised a recent decision of the Republican State Central Committee not to support any statewide slate of candidates.

Speaking to the Harford County Young Republicans, Simms said the decision "opens the way for an intensive primary campaign for statewide offices which will, I am sure, be carried on vigorously throughout the state."

In Baltimore, meanwhile, Dr. Clarence D. Long called for income tax deduction on college tuition paid by students and their parents. Long suggested that President Kennedy include the deductions as part of his program (Continued On Page 4)

Beall To Drop S&L Probe Plan

U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, the Frostburg Republican, reported over the weekend that there is no need now for a Congressional investigation of the savings and loan industry.

"Savings and loan associations are safe and sound and are a credit to our country with very few exceptions," Senator Beall said. "The percentage of bad ones is very small."

Senator Beall said that he agreed with Attorney General Robert Kennedy, whom he quoted as saying, "No evidence has been disclosed on a national scale of improper operation of savings and loan associations."

JOHN CALVIN SHOUBE

Venerable Citizen Marks His 95th Birthday Today

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

A venerable Cumberland citizen who was born on a farm in Rockingham County, Va., less than two years after Robert E. Lee's surrender at Appomattox, will celebrate his 95th birthday quietly here today.

He is John Calvin Shoupe, 18 North Smallwood Street, who has lived in Cumberland more than 70 years.

Mr. Shoupe, a small man with a quick step, has been quite active until the past year. A fall over a hassock in his living room last year resulted in a fracture of his right arm and he has been much less active since then. He spends much time now sitting in a large chair in his living room. He enjoys talking, and generally has six or eight visitors for brief periods each day.

The nonagenarian was born on a farm not far from Harrisonburg, Va., February 19, 1867, son of the late Henry Lincoln Shoupe and Emily Winfield Shoupe.

Distinguished Kin

He jokingly recalls that his father was a distant relative of President Abraham Lincoln but had little use for his kin. The older Shoupe served in the Confederate Army. Mr. Shoupe can claim distant kinship to both Mr. Lincoln, the nation's first Republican president, and General Dwight D. Eisenhower, the most recent GOP occupant of the White House. General Eisenhower's mother, whose maiden name was Ida Elizabeth Stover, came from the Shenandoah Valley too. Mr. Shoupe's mother was related to the Stovers.

Mr. Shoupe attended private and public schools in Harrisonburg until he was forced to go to work upon the death of his father. He came to this section as a 20-year-old man in 1887 as an employee of I.H.C. Pancake, who operated a general store in Romney, W. Va.

About 1890 he became a partner in the Allegany Orchard Company in the operation of several Hampshire County orchards. This firm was the predecessor of the Consolidated Orchard Company. About this same time he became a bookkeeper for the McCarthy Extract Company at Rock Oak, a Hampshire County community about 25 miles southeast of Romney.

Came Here In 1891

He came to Cumberland in 1891 as a bookkeeper for the First National Bank. In 1894 he acquired the Baltimore Street grocery business of E. H. Welsh and operated it in the block between George Street and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks for about 20 years. During this same period he was engaged in the orchard business in the Paw Paw, W. Va. area.

In 1917 he married Miss Elizabeth C. Brackett, daughter of the late F. E. and M. Elizabeth Brackett. She died in 1957.

While he was connected in the fruit business in the Paw Paw area, many carloads of fruit were shipped to England. Too much of this fruit spoiled aboard ship and during World War I he made a trip to England to study the methods of fruit refrigeration aboard ships. During this period he was affiliated with the Potomac Fruit Growers Club. He retired from active business in 1920.

Mr. Shoupe, with W. W. Handley and George R. Wheeler, built the Dreamland Lodge in 1906 on the South Branch near Romney. It was one of the first summer cottages on that river. During this period, he was an ardent hunter and fisherman. (Continued On Page 4)
